

Information on how best to support me

Worksheet to take to medical appointments.

Very often survivors of sexual violence can find medical appointments to be particularly triggering experiences.

For that reason, this page has been created that will allow you to know how best to support this survivor during their time in hospital/doctor's surgery/dentist surgery (delete as appropriate):

- Please always explain what you are going to do before you do it

- Please always ask me before you touch me, let me know why you will be touching me and where

- Please respect that if I am feeling overwhelmed, I will ask you to stop by saying:

Or by raising my hand/.....

- Please be aware that distraction/ grounding techniques work well for me. For example, If I am feeling overwhelmed please could you ask me to name things in the room of different colours/ask me the date and time and day/remind me to breathe/.....
